How to Avoid the Implement and Abandon Cycle through Quality Coaching: Coaching Basics

Coaching is a vital element of the implementation drivers within implementation science. In this institute, we will examine the coaching basics for administrators, coaches, teachers, and service providers. Topics will include research that supports the effectiveness of coaching and the types of coaching as described by Joellen Kilian's five models of coaching. Additionally, participants will have an opportunity to learn the basics of the coaching continuum including individual coaching, group coaching, and peer coaching with models of each. The fundamentals and importance of goal setting will also be addressed with teachers and student development in mind. Another key element will be feedback including types of feedback, the feedback loop and use of in-ear-technology as a means for in-the-moment content and high impact strategy coaching. Participants will learn and practice giving and receiving feedback and will be able to view models of in-ear-technology used in coaching teachers.
